

Wilfred W. Black, Ph.D. 1942, Professor of History at Findlay College, has authored an article, "Do College Students Know Their Geography?", in The Social Studies, January, 1971.

Daryl Pendergraft, Ph.D. 1943, Executive Dean and Assistant to the President at the University of Northern Iowa, will return next fall to full-time teaching in the Department of History, after 21 years of full-time administrative work. He has served the University of Northern Iowa in many capacities as Associate Dean of Instruction, Director of Extension, Executive Dean, Vice-President for Student Affairs and Field Services and, on several occasions, as Acting President.

Franklin A. Doty, Ph.D. 1946, retired from the position of Dean of University College at the University of Florida in March, 1971, a position he has held for the past five years. For two years prior to becoming Dean, he was assistant Dean for academic affairs. From 1961 to 1964 he was chairman of the Social Science department in University College. He will make his residence in Gainesville.

R. Bruce Harley, Ph.D. 1948, chief of the Office of Historian on the commanding general's staff of the Fifteenth Air Force (March Air Force Base, California), has published an article, "The Memorial Window at March AFB," in the American Aviation Historical Society Journal, November, 1970, issue. He has also written a booklet entitled "A Brief History of Strategic Bombardment, 1911-1971."

Eugene M. Emme, Ph.D. 1949, Chief historian of NASA, was elected as a member of the International Academy of Astronautics and serves as Co-Vice-Chairman of its History Committee. He organized and chaired the fourth I.A.A. History Symposium of memoir papers at Constance, West Germany, in October, 1970, which will be summarized in a forthcoming issue of Technology and Culture. He was also elected a Fellow in the British Interplanetary Society and serves on their Journal Advisory Board. He had book reviews in the Aerospace Historian, Technology and Culture and Military Affairs.

Donald F. Pierce, Ph.D. 1949, Chairman of the Department of History at Eastern Washington State College, is doing research at the British Museum in London this year.

Paul L. Hughes, Ph.D. 1951, Professor of History at Wisconsin State University, Whitewater, wrote a review of Giuseppe and Owen, Calendar of the MSS of . . . the Marquesses of Salisbury, Part 20, (A.D. 1603), in the February, 1971, issue of the American Historical Review. His Stuart Royal Proclamation Law: James I (1603-1625), written with Frank J. Larkin, will be submitted this coming summer for publication by Oxford University through the Clarendon Press. He is also at work on a three-volume study of Stuart Proclamation Law under Charles I.

Walter F. Peterson, Ph.D. 1951, assumed the Presidency of the University of Dubuque in September, 1970, leaving Lawrence University where he had been for five years. During this past year, he has continued as Editor of the Transactions of the Wisconsin Academy of Science, Arts and Letters, and has been elected to the Executive Committee of the Council on Theological Education of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A.

Harry M. Hutson, Ph.D. 1952, Chairman of the Department of History and Political Science at the University of Tennessee at Martin, presented a paper, "The Vietnam War and the Campus," at the annual Tennessee-Kentucky-Mississippi regional meeting of Danforth Associates on March 7, 1971. He also serves as chairman of the annual meeting of the Tennessee History Conference, a meeting of college and university teachers which was hosted by his department in April, 1971.

Donald Graham, Ph.D. 1953, continues as Dean, School of Graduate Studies, Wisconsin State University, Whitewater.

Dwight W. Hoover, Ph.D. 1953, Professor of History at Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana, has published "The Uses of Social History" in the Historical Society of Michigan Chronicle, Second Quarter, 1971. This is part of a series on historical method, which includes articles by John Higham, Sam Bass Warner, Jr., and Robert Swierenga. He has a chapter on "Black History" in New Movements in the Study and Teaching of History (Martin Ballard, ed.), published in the fall of 1970 in England by Maurice Temple Smith, and in the United States by Indiana University Press. He reviewed Richard L. Hernstadt's, The Letters of A. Bronson Alcott for the Journal of American History in the fall of 1970, and Walter Rundell, Jr.'s, In Pursuit of American History for the American Quarterly in the summer of 1971. His A Teacher's Guide to American Urban History will be published by Quadrangle Press in June, 1971; he co-edited with C. Warren Vander Hill, Readings in 20th Century American Social History, which will be published by John Wiley and Sons in the fall of 1971. He gave a lecture on Negro history to the Social Studies Council of the Fort Wayne High Schools on February 11, 1971.

Lenore Rickels Salvaneschi, Ph.D. 1953, has resigned as Chairman of the Department of History at Marymount College in Los Angeles. She now resides in Glen Ellyn, Illinois, and expects her absence from teaching to be temporary.

George Breathett, Ph.D. 1954, Chairman of the Division of Social Sciences at Bennett College, North Carolina, served as Section Chairman for that portion of the program concerned with the "Negro in Latin America" at the Meeting of the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History in Philadelphia in October, 1970. He also delivered two lectures at Hollins College, Hollins, Virginia, on "The Black Experience in Latin America." During this past year he has visited selected colleges and universities throughout the United States, in connection with a research project entitled, "Curriculum Innovations in Selected Colleges and Universities: Their Implications for Bennett College," under a grant from the North Carolina Consortium on Research and Development. He has also served as a consultant to the Consortium on "Curriculum Reform." Recently, he received a grant from the United States Office of Education, to conduct a Special Services Project at Bennett College, under Title IV of the Higher Education Act.

Lawrence J. McCaffrey, Ph.D. 1954, Professor of History at Loyola University in Chicago, became Chairman of the Department of History at Loyola in September, 1970. He has recently published reviews for the American Historical Review, Catholic Historical Review, Cithara and the Review of Politics. He has also written articles for the Encyclopedia Americana and the McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia of World Biography. He has just completed an article on "Irish Pioneers of the American Ghetto," and is doing research on literature and nationalism in Ireland since the 1840's. Last summer he taught Irish America in the School of Irish Studies in Dublin.

Neelak S. Tjernagel, Ph.D. 1955, was appointed Academic Dean of Shaw College in Detroit last September.

David C. Riede, Ph.D. 1957, has been promoted to the rank of Full Professor in the Department of History at the University of Akron. He is also Head of the Department of General Studies, and administers the nine courses required of all undergraduates at Akron, in addition to his duties in history.

Morton M. Rosenberg, Ph.D. 1957, Professor of History at Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana, has had his manuscript, Trans-Mississippi Frontier Politics on the Eye of the Civil War: Iowa as a Case Study, accepted for publication by the University of Oklahoma Press. He was promoted to Full Professor in September, 1970.

Donald Weinstein, Ph.D. 1957, Professor of History at Rutgers University, spent the summer of 1970 in Florence and in the Warburg Institute, London, doing research, after a year as a member of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton. In December, 1970, he served as commentator in a session on "Approaches to Popular Religion" at the AHA meetings in Boston. His book, Savonarola and Florence, Prophecy and Patriotism in the Renaissance, was published by Princeton Press in 1970. An essay, "Apocalypse in Sixteenth-Century Florence: The Vision of Albert of Trent," appeared in Renaissance Studies in Honor of Hans Baron, published in Florence in 1971.

George W. Sieber, Ph.D. 1960, Professor of History at Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh, gave a lecture on Frederick Jackson Turner at a University of Wisconsin extension seminar held at Portage, Wisconsin, last fall.

George H. Daniels, Ph.D. 1963, Professor of History and

Director of the Center for Interdisciplinary Study of Science and Technology at Northwestern University, has served as Chairman of the Local Arrangements Committee of the Annual Meeting of the Society for the History of Technology in Chicago (December 26-30, 1970); Arrangements Chairman, Midwest Junto of the History of Science Society (March 25-27, 1971); and Organizer of a symposium on "The Social Effects of Industrialization" (March 23-25, 1971), sponsored by the Center of which he is director. His recent publications include a book, Science in American Society: A Social History (Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., May 1971); an article, "The Big Questions in the History of American Technology," in Technology and Culture, Vol. II, No. 1, January, 1970 (reprinted in The State of American History, H. J. Bass, editor, Quadrangle, 1970); and two book reviews: Jeanette E. Graustein, Thomas Nuttall, Naturalist: Explorations in America, 1808-1841 in Pacific Historical Review, 1970; and Raymond Stearns, Science in the British Colonies of North America in Science, February, 1971. His current research includes "Scientific Societies in the United States: Their Structure and Role," a study of major scientific societies since the late nineteenth century; "Science and Technology in Modern America," a portion of an eleventh grade textbook to be published in 1972 by Follette Educational Corporation; and the editing of a two-volume collection of documents on the institutional and social history of American science for Alfred A. Knopf. He is also working on a series of essays entitled Science and Technology: An Externalist View.

Robert J. Knowlton, Ph.D. 1963, Associate Professor of History at Wisconsin State University, Stevens Point, was program committee co-chairman for the Wisconsin Association of Teachers of College History meeting in October, 1970, and program committee co-chairman for the Mexicanists' Session of the Conference on Latin American History at the American Historical Association annual meeting in Boston in December. In April he served as local arrangements chairman for the Wisconsin Council of Latin Americanists held at Stevens Point. He is contributor to Field Guide to Research in Mexico, edited by Richard Greenleaf and Michael Meyer, forthcoming. He is tentatively scheduled to present a paper on Teaching Latin American History at the AHA meeting in New York, 1971. During the summer of 1971 he will be on research leave to conduct a study, with the help of a summer grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, of the impact of the liberal assault on corporate civil property in nineteenth century Mexico. He will carry out his research at the Bancroft Library, Berkeley.

Robert D. Linder, Ph.D. 1963, Associate Professor of History at Kansas State University, gave a paper at the annual meeting of the Conference on Sixteenth Century Studies at Concordia Seminary and the Foundation for Reformation Research, St. Louis, Missouri, October 30, 1970. It was entitled "The Bible and Biblical Authority in the Literary Works of Pierre Viret." This study will be published as a chapter of Volume II of Sixteenth Century Essays and Studies (edited by Carl S. Meyer) in August, 1971, by the Foundation for Reformation Research. He is also Editor and contributor to God and Caesar: Case Studies in the Relationship Between Christianity and the State, Longview, Texas: The Conference on Faith and History, 1971. He wrote the introduction and contributed an essay entitled "Christian Faith and Loyalty to the State: Meaning for Today?" He has been elected to a two-year term (1970-1972) as editor of Fides et Historia, the official publication of the Conference on Faith and History. The Conference on Faith and History is a relatively new organization of individuals interested in the subject of "faith and history" and their interrelationships. It has about 250 members in the U.S. and Canada. Dr. Linder's article entitled "Modern Evangelical Christianity, Social Concern and Hope," will appear in the summer issue, 1971, of The Evangelical Quarterly, published at the University of Manchester, England. He is also serving as the Mayor of Manhattan, Kansas, during the period 1971-1972.

Robert L. Gold, Ph.D. 1964, Associate Professor of History at Southern Illinois University, spent the summer of 1970 doing research in Ecuador and Colombia on Gabriel Garcia Moreno. He served as commentator for "The Religious Heritage of Colonial America During the Nineteenth Century," at a session of the conference on the Colonial Heritage in Mexico and Central America, held at Southern Illinois University in April, 1971.

Richard V. Pierard, Ph.D. 1964, Associate Professor of History at Indiana State University in Terre Haute, is author of a book, The Unequal Yoke: Evangelical Christianity and Political Conservatism, published in 1970 by J. B. Lippincott, Philadelphia, in both hard cover and paperback editions. He is also co-author, with Robert D. Linder, of A Study Guide to Accompany Protest and Politics: Christianity and Contemporary Affairs, published in 1970 by Attic Press, Greenwood, South Carolina. His article, "The Transportation of White Women to German Southwest Africa, 1898-1914," appeared in Race (London), Volume XII, January, 1971. During the spring semester, he was on sabbatical leave for travel and research in Germany. During this period, he was visiting lecturer in history at the Bibelschule Bergstrasse, Seeheim, Germany.

Faye E. Harris, Ph.D. 1965, Chairman of the Division of Social Science at Stillman College in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, has participated in several conferences, including one for administrators held at Indiana University last summer, and a meeting on Afro-American and African Studies at Atlanta University in December.

Samuel T. McSeveney, Ph.D. 1965, Visiting Associate Professor of History at Cornell University this spring, has received a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities for research on the development and functioning of Tammany Hall during the final quarter of the nineteenth century. His book, The Politics of Depression, 1893-1896, has been accepted for publication by the Oxford University Press.

Robert P. Swierenga, Ph.D. 1965, Associate Professor of History at Kent State University, participated in the "Conference on Quantitative Methods in American History," sponsored by the Schweitzer Chair in the Humanities (Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr.), Graduate Center of CUNY in May, 1970. He presented a paper, "Computerized Historical Research: Problems and Prospects," to the Twenty-fifth National Conference of the Association of Computing Machinery, New York, September, 1970. He also delivered a paper, "The Christian Historian, the University, and Student Unrest," to the Conference on Faith and History at the AHA meetings (to be published in Fides et Historia). His recent publications include: an anthology, Quantification in American History, Theory and Research (Atheneum, 1970); "Clio and Computers: A Survey of Computerized Research in History," Computers and the Humanities (September, 1970); "The Iowa Land Records Collection: Periscope to the Past," Books at Iowa (November, 1970); "Clio With Numbers," The Chronicle (December, 1970); "The Odious Tax Title: A Study in Nineteenth Century Legal History," American Journal of Legal History (March, 1971); and "Ethno-cultural Political Analysis: A New Approach in American Ethnic Studies," Journal of American Studies (April, 1971). He has also received a quarter's research leave from Kent State University, and a Summer Teaching Development Award, to develop a new course on quantitative methods in history. His article, "The Ethnic Vote in the First Lincoln Election," which originally appeared in Civil War History (1965), has been reprinted in Frederick C. Luebke, Lincoln, Ethnic Voters and the Election of 1860 (Nebraska, 1971).

Gilbert Allardyce, Ph.D. 1966, Associate Professor of History at the University of New Brunswick, is the contributing editor of a book entitled The Place of Fascism in European History, to be published by Prentice-Hall in April of this year. He delivered a paper, "The Historiography of Fascism," to the History Council of New Brunswick in May, 1970.

Rodney O. Davis, Ph.D. 1966, Assistant Professor of History at Knox College has co-edited, along with Douglas L. Wilson, "Mormons in Hancock County: A Reminiscence by Eudocia Baldwin Marsh," which will appear in the Spring 1971 issue of the Journal of the Illinois State Historical Society. He has also received grants from the American Philosophical Society and the National Endowment for the Humanities this year.

William L. Bowers, Ph.D. 1968, Professor of History at Bradley University, attended an eight-week N.D.E.A.-sponsored Afro-American and African Studies Institute held at the University of Wisconsin during the summer of 1970. He chaired a meeting on American diplomacy during the 1920's at the 1971 Missouri Valley History Conference in Omaha. He has collaborated with departmental colleagues on a book of readings, Origins of Tomorrow, which is to be published by Holbrook Press in 1971.

James C. Hamilton, Ph.D. 1968, Associate Professor of History at Bemidji State College in Bemidji, Minnesota, served as commentator on papers concerning modern Britain read at the Northern Great Plains History Conference held in October, 1970, at the University of North Dakota. In March, 1971, he presented a lecture, "The Royal Prerogative and Parliament in Seventeenth Century England," at the Newberry Library Seminar in the Humanities in Chicago.

Clifford H. Scott, Ph.D. 1968, Assistant Professor of History at Indiana University, Fort Wayne, has served as a member of the university's faculty senate and as president of the local AAUP chapter. He published an article on Lester Frank Ward in the November, 1970, issue of Historian. He will continue his study of Ward this summer, through an Indiana University Summer Fellowship.

Hamilton Cravens, Ph.D. 1969, Assistant Professor of History at Iowa State University, was Visiting Assistant Professor of History at the University of Washington during the 1970 summer session. He has recently published several book reviews in the Journal of American History and the Pacific Northwest Quarterly. In December he read a paper, "The Discovery of Man: The Heredity-Environment Controversy and the Divorce of Biological and Social Theory in Twentieth Century America," at the American Historical Association convention. His article, "Psychology and Evolutionary Naturalism in American Thought," has been accepted for publication by American Quarterly. He is currently working on two new projects. One deals with certain sociological aspects of the scientific community in nineteenth century America; the other, for which he has received a travel grant from Iowa State, is a study of scientific conceptions of man in nineteenth century America.

Thomas J. Schlereth, Ph.D. 1969, who has a dual appointment as Assistant Professor of History and Assistant Professor of American Studies, Grinnell College, has been on leave from Grinnell this past year, during which time he has been Faculty Fellow in History in the Newberry Library-ACM Seminar in the Seventeenth Century Humanities. His present research centers on the Edinburgh Enlightenment, 1740-1820.

Gerald W. Wolff, Ph.D. 1969, Assistant Professor of History at the University of South Dakota, has published a review of James Rawley's Race and Politics for Civil War History this past year. His manuscript, "The Ohio Farmer-Labor Vote in the Election of 1896: A Case Study," has been accepted for future publication by Ohio History.

Howard A. Barnes, Ph.D. 1970, Assistant Professor of History at Winston-Salem State University, reports that he is currently teaching regular and honors sections in World Civilizations, one section of American Survey and a Historiography seminar. Next school year he will teach one-semester courses in American and Modern European Intellectual History, and two new interdisciplinary courses one of which bears the title, "Science and the Intellectuals." The other involves a combination of history and literature.

Charles Ebel, Ph.D. 1970, is currently revising his dissertation, Gallia Transalpina, for publication as a book.

Craig Lloyd, Ph.D. 1970, has been a Post-Graduate Fellow in History at The University of Iowa during the 1970-71 academic year.

He is completing work on a book, Aggressive Introvert: Herbert Hoover and Public Relations Management, 1912-1932. Part of the research for the book was carried out this past fall at the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace at Stanford.

Philip D. Jordan, Ph.D. 1971 (January), Assistant Professor of History at Western State College in Colorado, is now at work distilling his dissertation, "The Evangelical Alliance for the United States of America: An Evangelical Search for Identity in Ecumenicity During the Nineteenth Century," into a number of articles for future publication.

Glen W. Davidson, Ph.D. 1964, from the Claremont Graduate School, Professor of Church History at the University of Chicago Divinity School, has pursued research at Iowa during the 1970-71 academic year, as a Post-Doctoral Fellow in History and Religion.

Degrees

Since the last issue of the Newsletter, Ph.D. degrees have been conferred on Kirk C. Alliman, Joseph W. Baker, Howard A. Barnes, Stephen E. Berk, Frank Allan Burdick, Charles Ebel, Neil M. Johnson, Philip Dean Jordan, Craig Lloyd and Jack G. Morrison. M.A. degrees have been granted to Paula Hope Adix, Steven Wagler Bianco, James Hugh Campbell, David Allen Christiansen, Arn Richard Gabel, Stuart Kenneth Heald, Stephen Croft Hook, Jerome Wayne Kolda, Marcia Kaye Lewis, Roger William Mangan, Bruce Lee Moe, Laurence Robert Pizer, Ronald Lewis Prosser, Jane Reed Reister, Thomas Adelbert Sears, Robert Martin Taylor, Jr. and John Remley Wunder.

Iowa History Conference

This year's History conference, entitled "The Cold War: The Establishment, Its Critics, and the History Classroom," was held on March 26. The morning speaker, Philip A. Crowl, University of Nebraska, spoke on "John Foster Dulles and the Cold War." At the noon luncheon session, Fritz René Allemann, Visiting Professor at The University of Iowa, spoke on "Germany and the Cold War." For the afternoon session, a panel, including Philip A. Crowl (University of Nebraska), Charles Blank (Kirkwood College) and Ralph Plagman (Kennedy High School, Cedar Rapids), discussed "Teaching the Cold War."

Summer Session, 1971

Professor Charles Hale will be Chairman of the 1971 Summer Session. He will also teach a course on modern Mexico. Professor John James will offer a survey of American history, 1492-1877, and a lecture course in American economic history. Professor James Kittelson will teach Western Civilization, 1500-1815, and a course on the Reformation. Professor Henry Horwitz will offer a lecture course on early modern England, and a readings course on early modern England, 1450-1750. Professor Peter Larmour will teach a survey of modern European history 1890-1939, and a readings course in modern European history. Professor Robert Dykstra will offer a lecture course on recent American history, 1877-1920, and a readings course in recent American history covering the same period. A course on American history from 1920 to the present, and a seminar on the contemporary United States, will be given by Dr. Craig Lloyd. Professor Stephen Large will offer a survey of modern East Asian history, and a readings course on revolutionary development in China and Japan. Dr. Charles Ebel will teach a survey of the ancient Near East and Greece, and a course on revolution in the Greco-Roman world.

THE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA
Department of History
Iowa City, Iowa 52240

Nonprofit Organization
U.S. Postage
PAID
Permit Number 45
Iowa City, Iowa 52240

PSA 17